

BENCHROCK

A D V I S O R S

Operating advisory for food and consumer products companies

WHAT WE DO

Benchrock Advisors is an operating advisory firm for food and consumer products companies. The firm works across the full arc of the industry, from agriculture and processing through distribution, foodservice, restaurant operations, and retail, including supplements and nutraceuticals.

HOW WE WORK

The work is led by people who have run the functions they advise on. Benchrock advises and recommends. Clients make the decisions, with clearer information and a steadier hand on the wheel.

THE BENCH

Retail and distribution

National retail relationships, distributor strategy, and route-to-market execution.

Foodservice and international

Foodservice channels, cross-border sourcing, and international market entry.

Finance and manufacturing

CFO-level operating finance and food manufacturing performance.

Scaling and organizational performance

Multi-site growth, restaurant operations, and building teams that hold up under scale.

WHERE WE START

Most engagements begin with a focused conversation about where the business wants to go: a channel ready to grow, a launch worth getting right, margins with more to give, or an organization preparing for its next stage.

Moving from promise to performance.
